

Congratulations to everyone who was able to attend the Credit One Charleston Open. It was great for students to see professional players and role models for our players. The matches should be on YouTube and TV this weekend. Remember we will not have tennis next week due to spring break. Students should try and get in at least one practice time. Danny Jones courts will be open and the hitting wall is a great practice tool but practicing at home and in the neighborhood may also work. Here are some video examples -
